Commodore's, New Yacht

NOW that Mr. Henry Rymill has become commodore of the Royal SA Yacht Squadron, he wants a better craft, and so has bought Mr. Harry Bastin's auxiliary yacht Beth, which has had an interesting history.

Mr. T. H. Webb was the owner-skipper of the Beth in 1932 when, with a crew of four—R. H. and S. L. Webb, C. R. Bowman and E. B. Stallard—he shipped her to Auckland and sailed her back to Australia. They left Auckland on a 3,000-miles cruise on September 17, and after calling at places en route, reached Sydney on October 28.

They left on November 6, and arrived at Port Adelaide on December 14. Mr. Webb sold Beth to Mr. Bastin, who installed a new engine and modernised the interior.

many friends are to return.

Frank Malon received a letter from Judge Kelly from Hospital, East Adelaide, saying that he was being home by Christmas, although he expected to be away from judicial duties for some time, he looks forward to the Third Test laid in February.

Sturt's Desc

DR. Charles F. Sturt on to me the letter received from Mr. and Kenneth Sturt, Second avenue, Adelaide.

"We wish to call attention to an error in the 'Advertiser' on Thursday, December 30, from Canberra, under the heading of 'Relaxation'—take part in the R. Sturt."
