

Members of the SA team from L-R: Ron Brooker, Andrew McComb, Sam Cowell, Yiannis Kouros and David Barnfield.

Lakes swim for 2 crew members and a short bike ride to the boats where bicycles will be stowed aboard.

Teams then set sail for Stansbury on Yorke Peninsula where a 90 km night ride awaits.

The second and final sailing leg is to Eastern Cove on Kangaroo Is where the runners will be ferried ashore at Rocky Pt by inflatables for a 21 km run to the finish line at American River.

Enthusiasts are invited to start training now, as it promises to be challenging and enjoyable culminating in the "Keel-Tri-Shindig" and prize-giving Saturday night.

Anyone interested in the "Keel-Tri" may call 410 0111 during business hours for more information, and inquiries may also be made at the CYC and the Squadron.

POSTSCRIPT : "NORALLIE"

During the recent Barker Inlet weekend an observant member spotted NORALLIE, the vessel featured on the front cover of the last edition of "SQ". Regretfully, this classic old yacht built in 1907 is now in a very dilapidated condition and in the opinion of the observer, she now is probably beyond restoration. If this is so, it is a disappointing state of affairs for a once very successful Squadron racing boat.
