

WEEK'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Welcome Home Party

AFTER an absence of five years, spent in England, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Orr arrived in Adelaide today in the Strathmore. They lost no time in having the thrill of meeting old friends again as Mrs. Orr's mother, Mrs. Frank Forwood, gave a large late afternoon party today in their honor.

The party was held in a marquee on the lawns of Mrs. Forwood's home at Dutton terrace, Medindie, and rhododendrons from the hills were used for table decorations.

Mrs. Forwood was gowned in black with blotting paper pink as a contrast on the belt and the same shade repeated in the flowers on her hat. Her daughter, Barbara, wore a sheer frock with an all-over flower pattern and a big blue hat trimmed with flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Orr have taken Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ewens's house in Rasp avenue, Medindie, for 10 weeks while Mrs. Ewens and her children are holidaying in New Zealand. They will make their home in Adelaide with their young daughters, Margaret and Janet.

Sparkling Days at Sea

ADELAIDE'S yachswomen, who are few but keen, are looking forward to the opening of the Royal Yacht Squadron at Outer Harbor on November 19, when the new commodore (Prof. Mark Mitchell) will take the salute in his launch Grelka.

Mrs. Guy Pentreath, who has become an expert at handling her husband's yacht the Seasalter, is so enthusiastic about sailing that she has been out during the winter months.

Miss Mary King sails her father's yacht Argo, and Miss Suzanne Hawker, who once built a sharpie of her own, will sail the Alawoona, which she bought last year.

Another keen young yachswoman is Miss Jocelyn Ray, who has a yachting costume with the name of her father's boat Soliloquy embroidered across the front.

Mrs. R. Fisher, of Largs Bay, sails her own yacht which has the charming name of Reverie, and Mrs. Norman Ford, (Miss Rene Ford) may be seen handling the Anyndah in workmanlike manner.

Others who enjoy sparkling days on the water, and who will probably be seen at the opening, are Mesdames Ronald Angas (Pavana), Colin Haselgrove (Vamp), H. Holstein (Pioneer), S. R. Delmont (Tara), Rex Forder (Sapper), Stanley Verco (Solus), Douglas Verco (Nautilus), Harry Webb (Beth), W. M. Crawford (Kudos), and Harold McGregor (Norallie).

Has Cared For

3,000 Babies—And More

MORE than 3,000 babies passed through the capable hands of Miss A. J. Kimber, who retired last month from her position as matron at Mareeba Babies' Hospital. She spent eight years at the hospital.

During the last two years she supervised the care of two sets of triplets, and all the babies are now living and healthy.

This is not by any means the full number of babies she has had to deal with, as she was sister-in-charge of the Port Adelaide Baby Health Centre for three years, and before that was assistant matron of the Miller General Hospital in London.

Miss Kimber came out from England nearly 13 years ago for a year's visit to her only brother, who lives in Adelaide, and she has stayed here ever since. She hopes to go back to England for a visit soon, but means to return to South Australia, which she now looks upon as her home.

Holiday In Victoria

AFTER an enjoyable holiday in Victoria, Mr. G. T. Tiller has returned to her home at Walkerville. She stayed with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Griggs, and her son-in-law, at Fontainebleau, Mount Macedon. She
